Putting it on canvas

Joel Griffith, a Tivoli native living at the Hardeman Orchards in Red Hook, takes advantage of Wednesday's warm weather to continue his work on a landscape painting he'll be entering in a two-man show at the Galerie BMG in Woodstock in June. To Griffith, landscape painting is not restricted to only the natural world, but he likes to give a "faithful representation of what's in front of you," he said. His painting represents what has changed in his landscape. Griffith enjoys painting outdoors because he likes to put art in the community, learn from people's reactions to his art and, hopefully, they will learn from him.
